Second Day of the JBY Series, Sunday, July 13

For the second day of the mid-distance JBY series, the skies were dark as 4 boats headed to the line for a course "C" latitude race. We started with a light southerly wind that held for about the first hours until we experienced a 180 deg shift that coincided with a tremendous downpour that limited visibility to the point where we could not see the shore for a brief period of time. Luckily most of the boats were within 1/2-1 mile of their turning point when the squall hit, so we soon were heading back down the lake and after the visibility cleared, the spinnakers were once again set for the second time that day. Unfortunately, the nice Northerly breeze also failed and left two boats above Myers point while "Fantasy" and "Snitch" were able to sneak around Crowbar point and catch a second southerly drift which held to the finish. Eberhard and crew on "Fantasy" were able to hold onto their lead and cross the finish first, which also pushed them into first place for the series.

Next week will be another Fun/Family event. The actual sailing event will be decided on Sunday based on the wind/weather. Bring a new sailor and a bonus to anyone who can bring a new boat to sail with us.

Skipper's meeting/gathering will be at 1:00 pm and the event will start around 2:00 pm.

See you there!
